Undergraduate Research Symposium!!

The number of science themed events occurring in the Puget Sound region is impressive. There are plenty of science fairs and symposiums at academic institutions from elementary to 4-year universities to attend. The 2014 Undergraduate Research Symposium will be this Saturday, May 3rd, 2014 at Western Washington University. The Evergreen Science Carnival & Research Exposition will be happening at the Evergreen State College on May 30th and 31st, 2014. This month, like all months, also has a number of Science Cafés to attend. Check them out!

Extra gratitude to Clarita for all of her work with the Chemistry Olympiads this year! Thank you for all you do!

The Pauling Award for 2014 goes to Professor Stephen Buchwald of MIT. Congrats!

Spring is moving along nicely and the weather is steadily improving! Enjoy the sun!

Science Cafés

These Science Cafés are free and are open to all ages.

Queen Anne Science Café

"How Healthy is Your ZIP Code?"

Tuesday, 6 May, 2014 - 7:30 p.m. - T.S. McHugh's

Ever wondered whether where you live impacts your health? At the May Queen Anne Science Cafe, join the University of Washington School of Public Health's Tao Kwan-Gett, M.D., M.P.H., to learn how your community's health is measured, and why your ZIP code matters more to your health than your genetic code.

T.S. McHugh's is located at 21 Mercer Street, Seattle, WA 98109.

Eastside Science Café

"Genetic Warfare: Barriers to Infection & How Viruses Break Through"

Monday, 12 May, 2014 - 7 p.m. - Wilde Rover

Viruses and animals have been engaged in an evolutionary arms race for millions of years, evolving and counter-evolving in an attempt to get a leg up. At the May Eastside Science Café, join the Fred Hutchinson Cancer Research Center's Greg Brennan, D.V.M., Ph.D., to discover how this conflict has led to some of the most serious epidemics in modern times, and what we're learning to try to control them.

Wilde Rover is located at 111 Central Way, Kirkland, WA 98033.

These Science Cafés are free and are open to all ages.

Tacoma Science Café

"Forage Fish & The Puget Sound Food Web"

Tuesday, 13 May, 2014 - 6:30 p.m. - Swiss Restaurant & Pub

Across the world's oceans and seas, small, silvery, schooling fish – known collectively as forage fish – support some of the most culturally and economically important species in the region: salmon, orcas and seabirds. At the May Tacoma Science Café, join UW-Tacoma's Tessa Francis, Ph.D., to delve deeper into the importance of forage fish for the Puget Sound food web, and for the region as a whole.

The Swiss Restaurant & Pub is located at 1904 Jefferson Avenue, Tacoma, WA 98402.

Olympia Science Café

"Aerogels: past, present, and future"

Tuesday, 13 May, 2014 - 7:00 p.m. – Orca Books

Aerogels are unique materials that exhibit the lowest density of any porous solid and have an interesting history dating back to the early 1930s. Aerogels' low-density and mechanical strength have led to several interesting applications including NASA's recent STARDUST mission to return microscopic cometary dust particles to earth with the aim of learning more about the history of the solar system. There is also great interest in using aerogels for thermal insulation due to their ultra-low weight and thermal conductivity.

Dr. Peter Pauzaskie will present basic concepts in the field of aerogels, novel processing routes, and exciting properties, with particular emphasis on recent developments in diamond and graphene aerogel materials. His talk will cover a range of interesting applications of aerogel materials, such as in electrical energy storage, and the versatile sol-gel processing approach that has led to aerogels made from technologically-important materials including silica glass (SiO₂), various forms of carbon (including diamond and graphene) and, more recently, catalytic metals.

Dr. Pauzaskie is an Assistant Professor in the Department of Materials Science and Engineering at the University of Washington (Seattle).

Orca Books is located at 509 East 4th Avenue, Olympia, WA 98501.

Teen Science Café

"Climate Impact: Changes in the Northwest & How We Can Help"

Wednesday, 14 May, 2014 - 6:30 p.m. - Garfield Teen Life Center

Come uncover how climate change and adaptation has been impacting our local Northwest species and ecosystems at the May Teen Science Café. Join us, along with the University of Washington's Meade Krosby, Ph.D., in discussing the work that scientists and wildlife managers are doing to protect our environment, how these changes will affect us in the future, and what we can do to help.

Sorry adults, this event is only for teens.

The Garfield Teen Life Center is located at 428 23rd Ave, Seattle, WA 98122.

Executive Committee Retreat

On Saturday, April 5th, 2014, the Executive Committee met at the Chair's house for several hours to discuss how to best serve our section, how to better structure the monthly Executive Committee meetings and how to improve on communications within our section. It was a huge success and we wish to express our great thanks to Despina Strong for organizing such a productive and fun event.

Chemistry Olympiads

On Friday, April 25th, 2014, the National Chemistry Olympiad Exam took place. It was a great event! More than many of the other excellent events that the section participates in, the Chemistry Olympiads showcase the section's educational goals. Thank you Clarita and the Education Committee for all the work you put into making the Olympiads a success!
